Secretary,
American Numismatic Society

Dear Sir, —

I have a Bronze John Soane medal, and shall be obliged if you will advise me as to its value.

Obverse: Bust of John Soane with his name.

Reverse: facade of Bank of England, with legend, "A tribute of respect from the British Architects, MDCCCXXXIV."

Diameter, $2\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

This is one of the original Soane medals, not one of the later variants still presented to the Soane medalists by the R. S. B. A.

Respectfully

L. Parmly Brown

Dear Sir:

In reply to your favour of August 22nd regarding the bronze John Sloane medal in your possession, I beg to advise that the medal is not uncommon and commands a premium something in the neighborhood of Two Dollars.

Very truly yours,

Secretary
